

Plan Orphan League Play-off If Cubs, Waterloo Tie for Title

Thursday, August 9, 1962

Herb Fortman, Sports Editor

ATHLETE'S FOOT NOTES

When anyone asks "Who Is The Favorite To Win Today" on any given Sunday on the Sunday Amateur Golf Tourney circuit, invariably the first name mentioned will be Art or Bud Cooper. It makes no difference with which name you preface the Cooper, it's one and the same person and those who follow the weekly tourneys, will nod their heads, knowing the reference is to the likeable, precise shotmaker from Dubuque.

Art makes a habit of winning the Sunday tourneys and this past Sunday he scored his second victory in a row, picking up the Meadowbrook Country Club title here to add to the Waukon championship he had won the week before. Cooper made a shambles of Meadowbrook's tricky 35 par layout. He shot a total of 9 birdies, three on each round, scoring a 33 on the opening nine, a 34 on the second and a 33 on the third for a total of 100 strokes. This is the best tournament performance at Meadowbrook since the grass greens were installed a few years ago.

Sumner plays at New Hampton Thursday night and will meet Denver here Friday night. Champion of the Orphan League will play at Independence in the Iowa Amateur Baseball Association District playoffs. This will be a three team tournament.

The Orphan League representative will meet Winthrop, champ of the Buchanan Co. League, on Thursday night, Aug. 16 and Independence, the champion of the Quad-County Night League South Half on Friday night, Aug. 17.

Also arrangements are tentatively made for a game between the Waterloo White Hawks and the Registerland Conference (High School) Final Team Standings

Final Game
Oelwein 7, Fayette 0
Oelwein's Huskies blanked Fayette's Cardinals 7-0 Wednesday to gain a share of the High School Division of the Registerland Conference.

Oelwein and Fayette tied for the championship with records of 10 victories and two losses. Sumner's Aces finished fifth in the seven-team conference with a mark of five wins and six losses.

Right hander Gene Fuelling was on the mound for the Huskies in their final game and set down the Cardinals with only six hits. He struckout nine and walked two in a fine mound performance.

Fayette used Jim Timmerman, one of three brothers on the Cardinal team and he was touched with eight hits. Oelwein was also aided by five Cardinal errors in building their 5-0 lead in the first two innings. They added single runs in the fourth and fifth.

Jerry Nicol and Marc Hintz led the Cardinal hitting each with two hits in three times at bat.

Both teams will receive trophies for their championship finish. The conference was sponsored this summer by the Oelwein Daily Register under the leadership of Sports Editor Mike Mahoney.

Following their game with New Hampton Friday night, all members of the Cubs squad were treated to steaks at McMiller's Tap and Pool. The owner Chub Moeller, along with Jim McAlone of McAlone's Super Value, Don Keding of Keding's Bulk and Service and Wayne Ridge of The Booterie, sponsored this for the Cubs.

Several Sumner teenagers and adults participated in the annual Illinois Central Baseball Excursion to Chicago Sunday. The Sumner group boarded the train at Independence at about 5:55 a.m. Sunday, traveled to Chicago, took a bus to Comisky Park from Central Station and watched the White Sox throttle the New York Yankees 3-2 in 13 innings. They were back in Independence at about 10:30 p.m. Sunday night. Among those from Sumner were Richard Holm, Dick Howard, Mike McAlone, David Stahlhut, Leon Borcharding, Darwin Gitch, Terry Bradford, Richard Stubenrauth, Rodney Gehrke, Bob Reisinger, Larry Bartels, Harold Ferguson, Janet Kasemer, Les Platte and Bob Platte.

Manager Andy Nicklaus, reporting back from Monday night's Sports of Sports IABA meeting Tuesday night, said the Sumner Cubs and Waterloo Merchants will have a playoff game here at Sumner Monday night, for the Orphan Night League championship, if both teams win their remaining makeup games.

Only if both the Cubs and Merchants win their final two games will the makeup game be necessary. The two teams are tied for the Orphan League lead at the present time, each with 5-2 records.

Waterloo has a makeup game at Denver tonight (Wednesday, Aug. 8) and another at Waterloo with Denver, Sunday night. The Wednesday night game will start in the fifth inning with Denver leading 6-3 as this is a continuation of the game called earlier in the season because of a power failure.

Sumner plays at New Hampton Thursday night and will meet Denver here Friday night. Champion of the Orphan League will play at Independence in the Iowa Amateur Baseball Association District playoffs. This will be a three team tournament.

The Orphan League representative will meet Winthrop, champ of the Buchanan Co. League, on Thursday night, Aug. 16 and Independence, the champion of the Quad-County Night League South Half on Friday night, Aug. 17.

Al Schult, former owner of Cardinal Lanes Bowling Alleys here at Sumner and a former custodian at Upper Iowa University, Fayette, has been hired as assistant manager of the Lucky Ten bowling lanes at Independence. Schult has already assumed his new duties at Independence.

Les Teeling, coach of the Midget baseball team, said that the scorekeeper had failed to note a change in pitchers for the Sumner-West Union game, won by the Sumner team, 9-5. Actually it was Allen Avery that pitched after the first inning and was credited with the victory. Leon Borcharding had started for the Sumner team.

The Sumner Cubs here at Sumner Monday night, Aug. 27, subject to the approval of American Amateur Baseball Congress officials. If the game is approved by the AABC, it would be played, re-gardless of Sumner's successes in remaining league games or in the state tourney.

Sumner 17, New Hampton 5
Sumner's Cubs strengthened their Orphan Night League title chances Friday night, scoring a 17-5 victory over the New Hampton Chicks.

The victory was the fifth against two losses in league competition and moved them a half game up on the Waterloo Merchants. Sumner will play at New Hampton Thursday night and will meet Denver here Friday night to wind up their makeup of rained out Orphan League games. They can gain at least a share of the title by winning these last two. If Sumner and Waterloo tie for the title a playoff game date will be set for some time next week.

The Cubs spotted New Hampton four runs in the top of the first and then came back with a seven-run rally in the bottom of the first. From that point on it was a matter of how high the Sumner scoring would go. Sumner totaled 15 hits off the pitching of Dave Winter and Duane Josephson. After the first, they added six runs in the third, two in the fourth and two in the fifth. The game ended after six and a half innings on the eight-run rule.

A pair of walks had Cub south-paw Jim Borcharding in trouble in the top of the first. Duane Josephson followed the walks with a hit plating the first run. Three more runs crossed the plate on an error of Ernie Schmitt's long fly ball to deep right field.

Larry Burrows had a pair of singles in Sumner's seven-run scoring spree in the bottom of the first. Singles by Kermit Urban and Darwin Fritz and a double by Larry Wiebke, also figured in the scoring, as did four walks and two errors.

Sumner added six more runs in the bottom of the third on five hits, including a pair of singles by Ron Henninger, and one each by Don Sowers, Larry Burrows, and Jim Borcharding. Two New Hampton errors, a wild pitch by hurler Winter and a passed ball also figured in the scoring.

New Hampton picked up their final run in the fourth on singles by Leonard and Rima and a sacrifice hit by Winter. The Cubs scored two in the fourth on Sowers' single, Jerry Gehrke's pinchhit double, and error and a fielder's choice and counted their final run in the fifth on Larry Burrows fourth single, a stolen base, two passed balls and an error.

Borcharding worked the first four innings for the Cubs giving up five runs, six hits, striking out eight and walking two. Gehrke blanked the Chicks on two hits, one walk and three strikeouts. Winter yielded 11 hits, 13 runs, walked five and struckout three in the first four innings and Josephson gave up four runs, four hits, walked one and struckout three in the final two innings.

Burrows led Sumner hitting with his four singles. Sowers, Fritz and Sowers had two hits each. Josephson and Leonard had two apiece for the Chicks.

Line scores:

Sexton, Teeling To Meet Sunday For Championship

Defending club champion Dr. J. W. Sexton and Sumner High Golf instructor, Les Teeling, will meet in the championship match of the Meadowbrook Country Club's annual men's club tournament Sunday, Aug. 12. Matches in all other flights will also be played Sunday.

The championship match will start shortly after 1 p.m. after matches in the seven other flights and the junior tournament have been off. Spectators are welcome for any of the final round matches.

Wayne Schutte and Dennis Niewoehner will meet for the First Flight title and Dick Oehlme of Tripoli and Darwin Fritz are matched for the Second Flight title.

In the third flight, Harold "Pat" Snyder will play Joe Snelling of Tripoli and in the fourth flight, it will be Loyal Frisch meeting Leon "Bud" Reimler. Bud Foss and Lloyd Johnston comprise the fifth flight match and Jay Friederich and Ron Donn meet for the Sixth Flight title. Myron Harms and Jim Holliday play for Seventh Flight championship and in the Eighth Flight the two finalists are Jim Bradford and Darrell Faulkner.

Dan Sexton and Mahlon Ham-matter will meet for the Junior Club Championship.

Dugout Horseplay

Former Sumner Cub outfielder, Bill Bahr, right, engaged in some "horseplay" in the dugout Friday night with shortstop Kermit Urban of the Cubs, and drew a laugh from Cub outfielder Darwin Fritz Bahr, who now resides at Red Wing, Minn., has returned to Sumner for several weekend Cub games this season. He and Fritz, who has been a member of the Cub team longer than any other present Cub, played on a number of the great Sumner teams of the past.

Dubuque Golfer Takes First In Meadowbrook Tourney

three Sumner golfers who played in the same foursome with him and two of these were also among winners in the championship flight. Dr. J. W. Sexton of Sumner at left finished second to Cooper with a 105 and Les Teeling at right tied for third with a 106, then lost a playoff to Chuck Lehmkuhl of Fairbank. Dr. E. C. Ritter was also in the championship flight but his 112 placed him out of the prize circle.

Art "Bud" Cooper, the Dubuque sharpshooter who has more titles to his credit on the Sunday amateur tourney circuit than any golfer in northeast Iowa history, made it two in a row Sunday, Aug. 4, when he fired a five-under par 100 strokes for 27 holes to win the annual Meadowbrook Country Club Invitational.

Cooper's championship here at Sumner followed a victory at Waukon the week before on Sunday, July 29.

Here at Sumner, he actually breezed to the title. His closest competitor, Dr. J. W. Sexton of Sumner, who finished in second, was five strokes off the winning pace at an even par, 105. Cooper, who can call his shots like a professional pool player, several times disproved the fact that the shortest route between two points is a straight line. Particularly accurate on his tee shots, the Dubuque specialist intentionally steered his tee shots off the prescribed fairway to find better lies on adjoining fairways.

He opened with a two-under par 33 and then followed with a second round 34 to head into the windup three strokes under par. On the final round he was even par at the end of five holes after his birdie on the third was offset by a bogey on the fourth. After his par four on five, he fired straight birdies on six and seven and then par in with a three on eight and a four on nine for his second two under 33. His total of 100 strokes is one of the lowest in tournament history, and is the lowest since installation of grass tees at Meadowbrook some years back.

Les Teeling, Sumner High Athletic Director, Golf and Basketball coach had the best opportunity to overtake Cooper on the final round. He was only one stroke behind at 68 after a pair of 34's on the first two rounds.

However, he soared to a 38 on the final nine and Dr. J. W. Sexton, who had headed into the final round with a one-over par 71, came in second with his 34 stroke finish.

Bill Bowling of Sumner, a title threat for the first time since he began playing golf, was three strokes back of Cooper at the start of the third round, but he finished with a 39 and was out of the running.

Teeling and Charles Lehmkuhl, the 21-year-old long ball hitter from Fairbank were tied for third place at 106 and held a playoff for third and fourth places. Lehmkuhl, with the aid of a 300-yard-plus drive had a par-five on the first hole and ended it there when Teeling, after a penalty on his drive picked up a bogey six.

Dick Tremaine of Sumner won the first flight, climaxing his two-round 75 with an excellent third round par 35. Joe Kerwick of New Hampton finished second with a 112, adding a final one under par 34 to his two round 78.

Sumner had other flight winners, including Mike Sexton who finished first in the sixth flight and John Gorman who was third in the first flight; and Ernie Moran, second in the third flight.

Defending champion Chris Warnstad of Oelwein was second in the Second Flight with a 117. Following is the championship flight and winners of other flights. Four places received prizes in the championship flight and three in each of the other seven flights.

Championship Flight—Art Cooper, Dubuque—100
Dr. J. W. Sexton, Sumner—105
Chas. Lehmkuhl, Fairbank—106
Les Teeling, Sumner—108
Bill Bowling, Sumner—109

Waterloo Team Blanks Cubs 8-0 In Quad-Co. Game

Only two nights after they had defeated the Sumner Merchants on the eight run rule in an Orphan League game, the Sumner Cubs were blanked on the eight-run rule by the Merchants in a Quad-County League game, 8-0 at Waterloo Municipal Stadium Wednesday night.

Sumner threatened only twice in the game, as the Merchant Ace, Simpson hurled a third-hitter. The Cubs had a runner at second base with one out in the first and had two runners on at first and second after back to back singles by Ron Henninger and Dennis Olejczak in the second.

Jerry Gehrke's first inning single was the only other hit. Dick Wold started on the Cub mound and worked until the bottom of the seventh when Jim Borcharding relieved him.

Waterloo scored third in the first on singles by Marv Ott, Jack Jennings and Al Millenga and a pair of walks to leadoff batters, Vern Freeland and Larry Kaiser. They added three in the third on four hits, including singles by Tom Simpson, Millenga and Thad Bachtelheimer and a double by Bill Barnholdt.

They added one run in the sixth on a walk, a fielder's choice and a pair of Sumner errors and then ended the game on the eight run rule in the seventh on two walks, a stolen base and an error.

Barnholdt, Millenga and Simpson each had two hits in Waterloo's nine hit attack.

Sumner 000 000 0-0 3 3
Waterloo 303 001 1-8 9 1
