Stanley Man In Thirty Foot Fall At Feed Elevator

STANLEY (Special) — Rudolph Potratz Jr., 27, Stanley, suffered two broken legs and pelvic injuries when a one man lift he was riding in the Kaufman Feed and Grain elevator gave way and fell about 35 feet at 4 p. m. Thursday. Potratz was rushed to the Oelwein hospital where a Cedar Rapids specialist set the broken leg bones. Relatives report one leg was broken above the ankle and the ankle was broken on the other.

Additional x-rays were taken today (Friday) to determine extent of pelvic and possible additional injuries.

Potratz is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Potratz, Sr., Oelwein. He is married and has two children.

Vote "Yes" December 3

I am interested in fair reapportionment for Iowa and would be glad to help some on a local committee interested in getting out the vote. I favor the Shaff Plan for reapportionment, one house on area and one on population, as passed by two consecutive sessions of the legislatures and supported by most Register-land legislators including Senator Scott and Rep. Baringer. I understand that this is strictly a non-partisan campaign.

C. P. SHOBE

- How will it come? • When will it come?
- What will happen to Oelwein when the end comes?
- What will the last night on earth be like?
- What will happen to you when the end comes?
- Will men bring the end or will God?
- Hear and see the Bible answers tomorrow night.
- The Bible tells of a time when men will throw money in Oelwein streets and no one will pick it up.
- When will this happen?
