ICE CREAM INVENTED BY WASHINGTON?

When was the first ice cream made and who was the inventor of this now indispensable hot weather American dish?

It has been generally accepted that Dolly Madison, the charming fourth First Lady of the Land, was the first to invent and prepare this wholly delectable dessert.

It has been said by some historians that Thomas Jefferson, too, made ice cream, but not until after he had returned from France in 1789.

Was Washington's ice cream the first in America? More than likely it was. The Bicentennial commission at any rate is willing to give Washington credit for it until better proof is forthcoming in favor of someone else.

Popcorn Won't Pop If Too Dry
When everything is set for a pleasant evening of reading, eating apples and popping corn, it is exasperating to have popcorn that refuses to pop.

Poor results with popcorn are caused largely by insufficient moisture in the kernels. The popping process consists merely of expansion of the moisture in the kernel into steam which actually explodes it.
