Fire In Tunnel At U-Hospital, No Damage

A spark from a workman's welding torch was blamed for a minor fire this morning in a steam tunnel between University and Childrens Hospitals.

City firemen, called at 10:08 a.m., said the spark ignited leaves and discarded burlap sacks but there was no fire damage. Ejectors were used to clear the area of smoke.

Earlier, firemen extinguished a blaze on a back porch wall at the Henry Black home, 422 Brown Street. The alarm was turned in at 6:10 a.m., and firemen reported that the blaze was started by an electric cord from a dryer being pinched against a heat vent. The wall received slight fire damage.

At 10:05 p.m. Thursday firemen investigated a smoke odor at the John Freebairn residence, 415 Bowersy Street. Cause was a blown electrical fuse.

Zacek, 29, of Cedar Rapids, is accused of murder in the death of Jean Halverson, a Cedar Rapids high school senior, in a wooded area last October.

His court-appointed lawyer argued that the state security medical facility at Oakdale is without a qualified psychiatrist due to the pending departure of Dr. Douglas Johnson, clinical director.

believe I would feel insulted if the institutions did not think enough of my position to have a full-time staff member as a legislative representative." He said he believes working with legislators to be "a clear function of a state agency."

Responding to another question of Bailey, UI President Willard L. Boyd, said that Hawkins now is paid from non-tax funds of the university and the UI Alumni Association pays his expenses.

He was formerly paid by the Alumni Association, but Boyd noted Hawkins does other work for the university and is responsible to the university president and the regents.

In other actions, the board:
—Rejected a request for a review of salary by Prof. William A. Knoke of the UI business administration department.

—Heard Richey report that the regents will not request a supplemental legislative appropriation this year to finance bond payments on capital improvements.

Boyd said the committee he plans to name would undertake a thorough study of the university judicial system and make recommendations for creating a system that will serve the academic community effectively. Faculty, students, administration representatives and perhaps others, such as members of the State Board of Regents, could be represented on this study group, Boyd said.

No date has been set for the beginning of hearings conducted by Garfield.

Yorty May Run For Governor Of California

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Mayor Sam Yorty says he may run for governor of California.

"You can say it is a distinct possibility I will challenge (Jesse) Unruh for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination," the mayor said in a statement Wednesday.

Yorty said he will decide in about 60 days, after he has conducted a survey, but was "satisfied" he could defeat Unruh in the June primary. Unruh, Democratic leader of the State Assembly, has announced his candidacy.

"I am sure I would give incumbent Reagan a tougher fight than Unruh in the general election," Yorty added.

Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan is expected to seek a second term.

Dickinson Takes Own Life; Ex-Security Hospital Chief

CORALVILLE — The former superintendent of the Iowa Security Hospital, Dr. John K. Dickinson, 38, was found dead Thursday night of an overdose of drugs.

Johnson County Medical Examiner Dr. T. T. Bozek termed Dickinson's death a suicide. His body was found shortly before 9 p.m. at the Pine Edge Motel in Coralville. He had been a recent patient at the Psychopathic Hospital in Iowa City. Authorities said a check was made on his motel room when he failed to answer telephone calls there. His body was taken to Mercy Hospital.

Funeral services are pending at the Beckman-Butherus Funeral Home.

A psychiatrist, Dr. Dickinson resigned as superintendent of the Security Hospital in August, prior to opening of the hospital's new building near Oakdale. The hospital formerly was housed at the Anamosa Reformatory. At that time, Dickinson said he needed time to recover from injuries suffered in a traffic accident. He also was dissatisfied with staff and funding cuts for the new hospital.

He resided at 1307 Ninth Street, Coralville.

Council On Health Revived

A group formed in the 1950s to help develop ways to meet public health needs in the county took steps to revive itself Thursday.

The Johnson County Public Health Council, which all but dissolved after members found no legislation existed to help them plan comprehensive public health services, will be reorganized after a committee submits a report.

The original council was made up of representatives of official agencies, service clubs and individuals.

The committee was named Thursday after detailed discussion of developments since 1967 when the legislature adopted laws that provide for comprehensive county-wide public health activities.

Various agencies have been working since then to coordinate public health efforts, but the council no longer was active enough to assist.

Formation of the council was sponsored in the 1950s by the League of Women Voters. It has not met for three years. Last elected president was Mrs. Mary Comatser.

The committee appointed Thursday will meet in early February.

Being held in the county jail are Ronald D. Allen, 17, of 335 Dewey Street, and Michael Carl J6, of 629 North Governor Street. No bond has been set.

Police said the charges were filed in connection with an alleged check writing scheme. Charges filed by the county are in connection with a break-in at a Hills tavern.

Juvenile authorities are handling the case.

Highway 6, Keokuk Street Signals Ordered

Signal lights, posts and signal "controllers" have been ordered for the Keokuk Street - Highway 6 intersection, Public Works Director Ralph E. Speer said today.

Speer estimated it would take 90 days for the equipment to reach Iowa City. It would be installed sometime in the spring, he said.

He said he expects no trouble in getting final Highway Commission approval for the signal system. Speer recently conferred with Highway Commission officials to get an idea of the signal system they would approve for the intersection.

He said the preliminary plans for the signal system and the equipment order were based on the discussion with commission officials.

plying pilots for its fellow Moslem government.

The Soviet deal was cash on the line in advance, and there were fringe benefits. The Russians were making points with other Africans who feared similar tribal secessionism. They won permission to raise the number of diplomats in their Lagos mission. They sent more than 200 technicians with the planes to Nigeria. They made offers of postwar economic help. They extended credits for more war materials. They backed a magazine in Lagos, supplied materials for newspapers, prepared to open a direct air link with Moscow. They probably helped along a small, well-organized Nigerian Communist organization called the Socialist Workers and Farmers party.

Private interests, too, were profiting from the war. "It stinks to high heaven," cried a Swiss newspaper upon the official disclosure that a Swiss firm was trafficking in arms to Nigeria, violating Switzerland's neutrality.

Eventually the British disclosed they had been stepping up arms supplies to federal Nigeria and were providing up to 20 per cent of the country's weaponry. The policy was defended as in line with Britain's "residual colonial responsibilities." If Britain didn't do so, Nigeria would look elsewhere, it was pointed out.

Now the war is over, formally. The suffering and problems remain, along with the big-power politics. There is a rush of offers to help Nigeria repair the vast damage done by weapons supplied by both East and West. Gowan, in a fairly comfortable political driver's seat, will pick and choose where the help comes from, whom he will honor by accepting it and whom he will punish for not having supported him in the past. If he listens to the Russians, he will keep Western nations at arm's length.

The Soviet agency Tass quoted a Nigerian government newspaper as saying the Biafran surrender was a "blow to the machinations of the Western powers," and another as saying Nigeria should reject aid from all except those who "supported Nigeria throughout the crisis."

Des Moines Boy, 6, Dies When Hit by Car

DES MOINES (AP) — A 6-year-old Des Moines boy was killed Thursday when he was struck by a car on his way home from school.

Mayor Elected President Of League of Municipalities

Mayor Loren L. Hickerson was elected Thursday as president of the League of Iowa Municipalities for 1970.

The mayor, who served as a director of the League before his election as president by the organization in Des Moines late Thursday night, will succeed Clinton Mayor Harold H. Domsalla in the post.

Hickerson frequently has expressed concern about the "30-mill limit" imposed by state law on Iowa municipalities.

The mayor has consistently maintained that all Iowa municipalities face problems from the law, which regulates tax fund that can be spent for city operating needs.

He has pointed out in the past that Iowa City is better off than other cities under the millage limitation because industrial development has provided that enough money can be raised for each mill to meet the city's needs.

The issue is expected to be prominent in the current legislative session, and Hickerson is expected to add soon to his earlier criticism of the mill-limit law and others that restrict municipalities in meeting needs.

Jean Peters Seeks Divorce From Billionaire Hughes

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Former film actress Jean Peters has announced that she plans to divorce Howard Hughes, the billionaire recluse who owns much of this gambling center.

Miss Peters, now 43, and the wealthy ex-moviemaker were married in 1957 and are childless. He is 64.

The secret marriage ended a highly successful decade of film-making for the dark-haired actress, a onetime Canton, Ohio, farm girl who won a trip to Hollywood in a campus popularity contest in 1946.

Miss Peters probably is best remembered for her role in "A Man Called Peter," in which she portrayed the wife of a crusading minister who rose through many tribulations to become chaplain of the U.S. Senate.

She had other leading parts in "Viva Zapata," "Apache," and "Three Coins in the Fountain." All told, she had more than 15 screen credits.

Her divorce plan statement said: "Our marriage has endured for 13 years, which is long by present standards. Any property settlement will be resolved privately between us. . . . This is not a decision reached in haste and it is done only with the greatest regret." She was unavailable for further comment.

Hughes has vast holdings in Nevada hotel-casinos, plus aerospace, movie and oil firms, and is believed to be worth more than $1.5 billion.

Each had been married once previously. Hughes was divorced in 1928 from socialite Ella Rice of Houston. Miss Peters is the former wife of oil man Stuart W. Cramer III.
